Createspace, United States, 2014. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 203 x 127 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Dr Audrey Coatesworth writes: This book of 99 short poems gives vignettes of life. I just happen to have reached old age and these obviously reflect this, but many are relevant to any age. Many of the poems have few words but the information in each one could be used to write an essay . These are my perspective of the world or aspects of life. The poems have been written, some with humour and all with honesty, to entertain, educate by insight or just to pass a few minutes of life s time. I qualified as a doctor (as Audrey Earnshaw) from Edinburgh Medical School in 1962, and I married Peter in the same year. We have two children and five grandchildren. I worked as a psychiatrist for 35 years and now, in enforced retirement due to ill health, I continue my psychotherapeutic work through the medium of the written word. All the poems in my books have a message to anyone who wants to hear. At first I started writing poems for patients, as metaphors of their problems. I would read the individual poem to the patient with no explanation, and, using this way of inner communication , they could often release suppressed emotions, which on a conscious level they could not reach. Following my retirement I continued to write poems and collected these in books. I wrote for all ages. I thought that after I wrote Twilight Years for the older members of our society, that I had finished writing poems, but the poems in this book Glimpses would not be suppressed! I hope readers enjoy reading these poems as much as I enjoyed writing...
