Excerpt from Horace Of his father he speaks ever with deep respect. Ashamed of him? He says, because he was a freedman? Whatever moral virtue, whatever charm of character, is mine, that I owe to him. Poor man though he was, he would not send me to the village school frequented by peasant children, but carried me to Rome, that I might be educated with sons of knights and senators. He pinched himself to dress me well, himself attended me to all my lecture-rooms, preserved me pure and modest, fenced me from evil know ledge and from dangerous contact. Of such a sire how should I be ashamed? How say, as I have heard some say, that the fault of a man s low birth is Nature s, not his own? Why, were I to begin my life again, with permission from the gods to select my parents from the greatest of mankind, I would be content, and more than content, with those I had. 3 The whole self respect and nobleness Of the man shines out in these generous lines.
