Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: VDM Verlag Dr. Müller | A Contextual Approach to Asian African Fiction | M. G. Vassanji has written six novels tracing the migration of South Asians to East Africa in the 19th and 20th Centuries, and their further exodus to North America from the 1960s onwards. South Asians in East Africa are known in popular discourse simply as the "Asians" or "Wahindis". Vassanji chronicles their unique (hi)stories as a migrant community against the Black versus White colonial logic prevalent in African studies. Through his fiction, he argues Asians of East Africa (Asian Africans) are neither Blacks nor Whites but a third identity between the two. They are the Other cultural factor in East Africa's multiracial equation. This new book examines strategies of narration and discourse used in Vassanji's fiction to express the Asian African experience and cultural ethos. Context-based readings of The Gunny Sack (1989) and The Book of Secrets (1994) reveal how Vassanji uses setting and characterization to articulate communal memory and authorial vision. His fiction challenges readers of literature to reflect anew on the nexus between history, literature and the politics of identity in contemporary Africa. | Format: Paperback | Language/Sprache: english | 185 gr | 128 pp.
