TREE LINE: HASSELBLAD AWARD 2009

Steidl, O. Hardcover. Condition: New. Robert Adams - Tree Line: Hasselblad Award 2009 On the occasion of the award of the Hasselblad Award to Robert Adams of the band appeared with photographs of trees. Between 1999 and 2003, the black and white pictures were taken in Oregon. As Robert Adams understood as documentary and landscape photographer, he also displayed his photographs of trees from anything that has been created by humans and possibly could interfere with the pure aesthetics of nature. The moods that lie in the photographs - most arose on sunny summer days - are thereby and by the light and shadow in the photographs even more realistic and nachempfindbarer for the viewer. This volume commemorates Robert Adams' receipt of the Hasselblad Foundation International Award in Photography for 2009. Described by the Swedish foundation as "one of the most important and influential photographers of the last 40 years," Adams joins a very distinguished line of contemporary photographers who have won the award, such as Graciela Iturbide (2008) and Nan Goldin (2007). The Foundation singled out Adams' ability to consolidate the medium's history: "as photography has altered and fragmented, he has refined and reaffirmed its inherent language, adapting the legacies of nineteenth-century and modernist photography to his own very singular purpose. Precise and undramatic, Adams' accumulative vision of the West now stands as a formidable document, reflecting broader, global concerns about the environment, while consistently recognizing signs of human aspiration and elements of hope, across a particular changing landscape." Hardcover: 116 pages, 57 plates Dimensions: 1.6 x 25.9 x 27.7 cm Publisher: Steidl, Language: English ISBN-13: 978-3865219565.
