Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Bimetallism and Monometallism, Interview With the Most Rev. Dr. Walsh From the Freeman s Journal and National Press, Dublin. Question by Reporter: The connection, your Grace, between Bimetallism and the Irish Land Question does not seem very close? Answer by Archbishop Walsh: Yet nothing could be closer. The adoption of Bimetallism, or of some equivalent remedy, if there be an equivalent remedy, is, I am convinced, a matter of imperative necessity; that is, if the agricultural tenants of Ireland - and I do not at all limit this to Ireland - are to be saved from otherwise inevitable ruin. This is transparently obvious to everyone who has mastered even the elementary facts and principles of the case. But it is disheartening to find that, notwithstanding all this, no interest seems to be taken in this grave question by many of the leaders of Irish opinion. If things go on as they are, even the excellent Land Purchase scheme which is associated with the name of Lord Ashbourne may become, before many years are over, a source of widespread disaster to the tenants who have purchased under it.
